It is our pleasure to offer this volume of papers and poster presentations that were delivered at the 2008 meeting of GALANA (Generative Approaches to Language Acquisition – North America), held at the University of Connecticut in Storrs from the 4th to the 6th of September 2008. The special theme of this GALANA was ‘Language Acquisition and Cross-Linguistic Variation’: the relationship between theories of language acquisition, on the one hand, and theories of grammatical variation across languages. The theme was addressed by each of our invited speakers: Paula Fikkert (Radboud University), James Huang (Harvard University), and Lydia White (McGill University). We would like to thank the invited speakers, and indeed all of the participants in the conference.

We would also like to thank those who kindly reviewed the submitted abstracts: (in alphabetical order) Peter Avery, Sergey Avrutin, Adriana Belletti, Joyce Bruhn de Garavito, Walcir Cardoso, Harald Clahsen, Stephen Crain, Suzanne Curtin, Laurent Dekydtspotter, Jill de Villiers, Paula Fikkert, Janet Fodor, Anna Gavarró, Elena Gavruseva, John Grinstead, Teresa Guasti, Ayse Gürel, Cornelia Hamann, Bart Hollebrandse, Nina Hyams, Tania Ionin, Marie Labelle, Usha Lakshmanan, Donna Lardiere, Claartje Levelt, Juana Licerias, Jeffrey Lidz, Jürgen Meisel, Silvina Montrul, Anna Papafragou, Joe Pater, Colin Phillips, Bernadette Plunkett, Philippe Prévost, Keren Rice, Mabel Rice, Jason Rothman, Tetsuya Sano, Carson Schütze, Bonnie Schwartz, Roumyana Slabakova, Antonella Sorace, Rex Sprouse, Kriszta Szendroi, Rozz Thornton, Ianthi Tsimpli, Kamil Ud Deen, Elena Valenzuela, Angeliek van Hout, and Martha Young-Scholten.
